

City of Boulder's Open Space & Mountain Parks

Preserving Land for Sustainable Agriculture!

Thousands of acres of OSMP land are leased to local farmers and ranchers to produce beef, honey, organic vegetables, hay, and staples like wheat, corn, and barley.

The City of Boulder Open Space and Mountain Parks and its farmer-partners are moving towards reduced-risk pesticides; no GMOs are grown on OSMP properties.

Local food production is actively encouraged, so food that is grown here can be eaten here. OSMP agricultural practices enhance wildlife habitat and increase biodiversity.

Lauren Kolb

Ann G. Duncan

Lauren Kolb

