

STANDARD RENTAL LICENSING EXEMPTION AFFIDAVIT

Rental properties in Boulder must have a valid rental license issued by the City of Boulder and must abide the city’s rental licensing requirements prior to leasing any rental property, or room(s) within a property, to another person. (Section 10-3-2 of the Boulder Revised Code (B.R.C.) 1981). However, there are exemptions to this standard rental (30 days or more) requirement. If either of the situations outlined below are applicable, a property may be exempt from the city’s rental licensing requirement. Short-term rentals are properties that are rented for less than 30 days at a time and are only allowed at the owner’s principal residence. All short-term rentals must be licensed before advertising the property for rental; there are no exemptions for short-term rentals.
