About the Listening Sessions:

The city and county are hosting six listening sessions within Boulder in November and December with more expected next year. These sessions will have a local focus and are a chance for you to share ideas with staff members and ask questions about matters affecting your part of town.

Some events also will offer a chance to learn more about city programs and projects planned for your area. Depending on the event, staff members from multiple departments could be on hand to talk about subjects like upcoming transportation, greenways, and parks projects, or studies affecting your part of town.

More information about each listening session, including event details, updates and valuable information about your area, is available on www.BoulderValleyCompPlan.net.
