Historic Preservation Internship 2016

The Historic Preservation Program of the City of Boulder is seeking a student for a one year, paid internship position beginning in January 2016 part-time for the spring and fall 2016 semesters, and full time during the summer break. The rate of pay is $12-$14 per hour.

A graduate or undergraduate level student from historic preservation, history, architecture, planning, or landscape architecture with a demonstrated interest in historic preservation is sought for this internship. Familiarity with graphic programs like Adobe Creative Suite and strong written skills are important.

The internship will entail the following:

- Researching the history of various historic properties to determine eligibility for local landmark designation;
- Assisting with the city's design review process as it relates to historic properties and districts;
- Assisting the city's historic preservation planners in all aspects of program implementation, such as in community engagement, Landmarks Board meetings, and general administrative tasks;
- Gaining an understanding of the city's historic preservation program.

To apply, please submit your cover letter and resume via e-mail to:
