

Robb Davis
Mayor
City of Davis

Robb Davis is currently the Mayor of the city of Davis and began his term on the Davis City Council in 2014. He has been a strong advocate of fiscal stability and control in municipal finances, restorative justice, and environmental sustainability.

A public health professional with a Masters in Public Health and PhD from Johns Hopkins University Bloomberg School of Public Health and over 25 years of experience in the areas of maternal and child health, child nutrition and food security, Robb spent two decades working with small communities in Africa and Asia, developing programs to address health-related issues.

In his personal life, Robb is married to Nancy, and they have two adult children and three grandchildren. Robb can be seen biking around town, assisting with numerous local non-profits, or meeting with residents about local issues and concerns.